Lr. Bucks Hospital 22 Pct. Complete; Work Stepped Up

Charles E. Hunter, general chairman of the Lower Bucks County Hospital Completion Fund, revealed today that the construction work on the new 150-bed hospital which will cost approximately $3,000,000 when completed, is progressing at a rapid pace.

With the carpenter's activities resuming, the labor situation at the hospital is entirely satisfactory from the construction angle.

For nine work days, the carpenters have averaged nearly 160 man hours per day on the job and over 50,000 overall man hours of work have been accumulated on the hospital construction up to July 1st of this year.

Hunter revealed material is being received at the site in a continuing flow and during the month of June, 15 tons of reinforced steel, eight tons of wall steel and 245 yards of concrete placement were installed. This is in addition to two gasoline tanks for emergency lighting and elevator pumps which were erected.

According to Elmer Kleppinger, Clerk of the Works, the consolidated job balance sheet of the prime contractors shows a total physical completion as of July 1 at 21.94 percent; part of money approved 19.74 percent; part of retainage used 21.94 percent; part of money expended 19.74 percent; contract time consumed 37.58 percent. Bensalem Firm Denies Causing Cornwells Smog

Myron Havis, president of Lubrication, Inc., Walnut avenue and the railroad, Bensalem, denied yesterday that the smog which has annoyed Cornwells Manor residents is coming from his plant.

"There is no foundation for the accusations by O'Neal that our firm is the source of the fumes," he stated.

Robert L. O'Neal, president of the Bensalem township Taxpayers Association, had said that he intended to circulate a petition demanding action by the supervisors regarding the smog which, he said, is issuing from the refining plant.

He termed the plant a "public nuisance."

George Rentz, Bensalem police chief, said "O'Neal seems to be taking things into his own hands, but nothing can be accomplished by either a petition or by contacting Harrisburg. It is a county matter."

The chief continued, "When I received the complaints on Monday, I advised the people, as a group, to hire an attorney who could contact the courts in Doylestown. Last night articles appeared which criticized both the police and supervisors, for something that we can't do anything about. Something like that which can be termed a 'public nuisance' is of civil nature, not criminal."

Rentz has contacted an attorney, and the attorney stated that the people should "get an attorney who will draw up a bill of equity, present it to the Doylestown court and they will pass a decision on it after a hearing."

$2,500,000 Bid Received For New Highway Project

HARRISBURG, July 18 — Pushing plans to speed traffic in the Fairless Steel Works area, the State Highway and Bridge Authority yesterday announced that a low bid of $2,475,869.90 for construction of a 2.08 mile section of U. S. Route 13 and 1 in Falls township and Morrieville, had been submitted. The bidder was C. J. Langenfelder and Son, Inc., of Baltimore, Md.

The project is part of a $12,000,000 highway program projected for Bucks county to provide a four-lane divided highway of reinforced concrete and widening and surfacing of existing pavement.

Three steel girders and I-beam bridges and two reinforced concrete bridges, for a total length of 1040 feet, are included in the bid.

The largest project of its kind ever launched in Bucks county by the State Highway Department, it

DOYLESTOWN, July 18 — Proposals to continue the "dead-end" super highway through Langhorne to Lincoln Point and extend Route 413 from Lincoln Highway to bypass Newtown, to the east, this week won the endorsement of Bucks County Planning Commission.

These recommendations are highlights of a recent survey in which the Planning Commission also urged the extension of North-east avenue from Philadelphia to Trevese.

The planners cited increased traffic coming to Lincoln Highway with completion of the Trenton Freeway, and stated that the super-highway could take eastbound traffic from Janney to Lincoln Point to enter the freeway nearby. An estimated 21,000 automobiles use Lincoln Highway every day at present.

The Route 413 extension was recommended to accommodate changing conditions in Lower Bucks County.

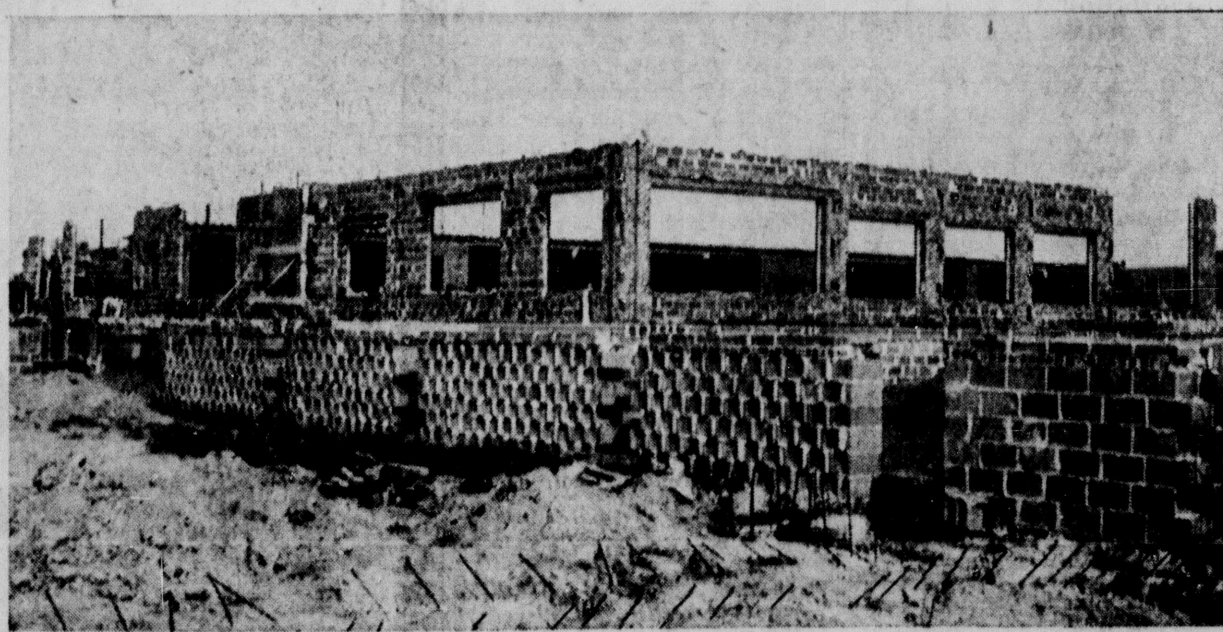

The Commission urged a parkway "to serve as a collector of passenger car traffic from east-west routes in Fairless Hills, Levittown, and Hulmeville area to Roosevelt blvd. and Northeast avenue. The parkway would provide an improved route from the Street road and Bristol road area to industries east of Bristol."

Blood Donors Break Ground Tomorrow

The breaking of ground for a new building for the Bristol Blood Donors on Green lane and Farragut avenue will be held tomorrow.

Acting as master of ceremonies will be I. J. Hetherington Sr., burgess of Bristol borough. The progress of the Blood Donors in aiding the sick and injured in the area through its emergency ambulance, which is on 24-hour call, will be cited by the speakers.

River Level Dips; Drought Widens; Bristol Water OK

Water Supply Here Adequate; Caution Urged

The water supply of the Bristol Water Department remained at normal this morning, Livingston Joyce, engineer, reports, explaining the low mark is reached daily in the late afternoon and evening.

However, the cooperation of residents and industrial plants yesterday kept the water level in Bristol at a satisfactory point in the tanks.

Joyce said the level was five feet, late yesterday, above the preceding day, because the great majority of people heeded the appeal in The Bristol Courier to shun car washing and lawn sprinkling.

Because few persons work Saturdays and Sundays, the water situation is expected to remain normal, but Joyce warned that Monday — the proverbial "wash-day" is the big threat to the supply.

Yesterday the tanks dipped to 16 feet, as compared with a nine-foot level on Thursday, and this morning the level rose to 23 feet. The Water Works is pumping at present from 7 to 7½ million gallons of water daily — a peak load, Joyce said, for the pumping stations which obtain water from the Delaware River, in addition to the wells at Edgely and from the Bath Wells.

The drought has spread to Levittown, according to a notice being circulated to all homes there by Lower Bucks County Joint Authority, prohibiting watering of lawns from noon to 8 p. m., "due to the exceptionally dry spell."

"You may water your lawns as much as you want before noon or after 8 p. m., the circular says. "Your cooperation will be appreciated and will result in an ample supply of water for everybody."

A Penndel wife, Jean Shetzline, who is getting a divorce from her husband, William Shetzline, 44, yesterday pleaded with Judge Edward H. Satterthwaite in criminal court here to give him another chance and place him on probation just once more.

"This is the last time you will ever see me in this court and this is the last time I will ask a favor of you," said Shetzline who admitted they have lost their Penndel home and she must move in with her mother-in-law.

Middletown Zoning Plan To Be Aired In Twp. Tuesday

A proposed revision of the Middletown Township Zoning Plan will be the subject of a public hearing at the Township Building Tuesday, at 8 p. m.

The amendments proposed apply to both the text of the zoning ordinance and the zoning map. The Zoning Ordinance and Map adopted in 1947 are not changed basically by the proposed amendments.

However, several significant improvements are proposed in the zoning regulations, and certain areas of the township are suggested for reclassification from A-Agricultural and R-1 Residential to manufacturing zones.

The amendments are the result of many months of study on the part of the township supervisors, its zoning review committee, and the Government Consulting Service of the University of Pennsylvania.

The study was initiated by the Supervisors because they recognized that certain modifications were needed in the Township Zoning Plan to enable the township to cope with the new kinds of problems and developments that have resulted from the rapid industrialization and suburbanization of section.

Higher Tides Here Puzzle Boro Official

The nine-day dry spell in Lower Bucks county and elsewhere in the Delaware River Valley has seriously affected the level of the river in the lower regions near and below Philadelphia, it was learned today.

However, at Bristol, Livingston Joyce, borough engineer, said while the water level here is lower than normal, for some unknown reason the tides have been higher by about one foot.

Joyce said the Bristol area has encountered higher tides since last Spring, and yesterday it was higher than usual — about a foot higher the engineer revealed.

"Why the high water here since Spring is puzzling, especially when the Philadelphia area is having lower tides," Joyce said. He explained that the tide usually rises about five feet, but has jumped to six feet since Spring.

Engineers in the Philadelphia-Wilmington-Marcus Hook region report fresh water entering the tidewater at Trenton Falls is now less than one-fourth of the average daily flow. Within the past two weeks, they said, the flow of the river has shrunk by the astounding total of 3010 cubic feet a second, or more than 1,950,000,000 gallons a day. This means the river has "lost" as much water as it would take to supply the total daily water needs of both New York city and Philadelphia.

More alarming, in the opinion of engineers, is the fact that salt water penetration of the river has

Yesterday the tanks dipped to 16 feet, as compared with a nine-foot level on Thursday, and this morning the level rose to 23 feet. The Water Works is pumping at present from 7 to 7½ million gallons of water daily — a peak load.

Joyce said, for the pumping stations which obtain water from the Delaware River, in addition to the wells at Edgely and from the Bath Wells.

The drought has spread to Levittown, according to a notice being circulated to all homes there by Lower Bucks County Joint Authority, prohibiting watering of lawns from noon to 8 p. m., "due to the exceptionally dry spell."

"You may water your lawns as much as you want before noon or after 8 p. m., the circular says. "Your cooperation will be appreciated and will result in an ample supply of water for everybody."

Middletown Zoning Plan To Be Aired In Twp. Tuesday

A proposed revision of the Middletown Township Zoning Plan will be the subject of a public hearing at the Township Building Tuesday, at 8 p. m.

The amendments proposed apply to both the text of the zoning ordinance and the zoning map. The Zoning Ordinance and Map adopted in 1947 are not changed basically by the proposed amendments.

However, several significant improvements are proposed in the zoning regulations, and certain areas of the township are suggested for reclassification from A-Agricultural and R-1 Residential to manufacturing zones.

The amendments are the result of many months of study on the part of the township supervisors, its zoning review committee, and the Government Consulting Service of the University of Pennsylvania.

The study was initiated by the Supervisors because they recognized that certain modifications were needed in the Township Zoning Plan to enable the township to cope with the new kinds of problems and developments that have resulted from the rapid industrialization and suburbanization of section.

O Lord, Thou hast said that if we do not forgive we shall not be forgiven. Give us, therefore, grace to forgive as we desire to be forgiven. May we not hold resentment in our hearts. When we do wrong against Thee and our neighbor, help us to acknowledge it, and to ask for forgiveness. As we shall enter Thy House of Prayer tomorrow, may we remember that Thou wilt not accept our sacrifice of prayer if we are not willing to forgive. May we remember that we must forgive even those of whom we are certain of being our enemies, recalling the words of our divine Saviour: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." Through Christ, our Lord, Amen.

Bristol All-Stars Bow to Pennsbury, 4-0, in Playoffs

The Bristol Little-Bigger League All-Stars were eliminated from the Bucks County playoffs last evening in a "sudden death" game with the Pennsbury All-Stars on Memorial field. The Bristol boys made but two hits as they bowed, 4-0.

"Reggie" Turner handed the Bristol boys their set of goose-eggs. He struck out ten and gave up one walk. Only in the sixth, the local boys threatened when Larry Fehelly drew a walk and Patty Dougherty singled. But Ron Barkasy fanned to end the inning. The other Bristol hit was a single by Ed Williams in the third.

"Eddie" Williams was the losing pitcher. The visitors scored their four markers in the fourth on singles by Jim MacMillan, Bob Kraus, Turner, and Fred Stryker. An error by Bob Lake also was mixed in.

Of the five Pennsbury hits, two were made by MacMillan.

Monday evening, Bristol will play Morrisville LBL All-Stars.

almost quadrupled in the same period. Ocean water penetration of the river, as expressed in parts per million of chlorides, soared from 20 on July 1 to 110 on July 15 and appears to be increasing daily toward the "acceptable limit" of 200 parts per million.

Engineers explained that when the river water contains more than 200 p. p. m. it begins to inflict heavy damage upon industries on the lower river in the Wilmington-Marcus Hook-Chester industrial area.

While the salt water situation is not yet dangerous, it could become so within a few days unless there is increased run-off of fresh water into the main stream from the upper tributaries.

At the present time, the river is flowing at the rate of 2870 cubic feet a second into tidewater at Trenton Falls, as compared with a year-round average of 11,830. It is now at its lowest flow since last Nov. 12, when the drought of last September brought it to its lowest point.

The present threat is intensified because it comes early in the annual "dry" period.

The over-all plan calls for relocation of Route 13 at Tullytown, where it joins Fallsington rd. and construction of a bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks from Lincoln hwy. to Morrisville rd. The new Route 13 will parallel Fallsington rd., then veer and join the present Lincoln hwy. just west of Snipes Corner. Later this route will be extended to River rd. just outside of Morrisville.

Also in the project is a new road from Morrisville to Tyburn rd., to Tullytown rd., rejoining Route 13.

wouldn't listen to you," said Judge Satterthwaite. "You have broken your promises so often that any made by you are worthless."

Shetline, who violated his parole by getting in trouble in Pateron, N. J., where he served 60 days in jail, was re-paroled yesterday by Judge Satterthwaite.

He was sentenced Jan. 14 to pay the costs of prosecution and serve not less than 30 days nor more than a year in jail. He pleaded guilty to assault and battery on his wife.

Shetline was paroled on Feb. 6. He got into trouble and was re-paroled May 1. Shetline beat up his wife Dec. 22, 1952, when Mrs. Shetline said her husband attempted to kill her.

"I am warning you that if you get into trouble again you will serve the full maximum of your term," Judge Satterthwaite said.

WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT!

Sufferers will be glad to learn that amazing, new, scientific pulsators have been developed that will help poor blood circulation. A few minutes' daily use will help relieve painful limb cramps, numbness, cold feet, and other circulatory ailments. Users report also that the devices are wonderful for nervous tension and fatigue.

No electricity enters the body. Operation is similar to equipment built by same manufacturers for hospitals, institutions, etc. For details and booklet, write Niagara, 244 E. Hanover, Trenton, N. J., or call Bristol 8-3738.

"Remember, if your husband gets into trouble again it will be your fault because it is only because of you that he is not being kept in prison," the Court warned her.

Certain technicalities have kept the Shetline divorce decree from becoming final and being signed. Judge Satterthwaite said to Mrs. Shetline.

Bristol All-Stars Bow to Pennsbury, 4-0, in Playoffs

The Bristol Little-Bigger League All-Stars were eliminated from the Bucks County playoffs last evening in a "sudden death" game with the Pennsbury All-Stars on Memorial field. The Bristol boys made but two hits as they bowed, 4-0.

"Reggie" Turner handed the Bristol boys their set of goose-eggs. He struck out ten and gave up one walk. Only in the sixth, the local boys threatened when Larry Fehely drew a walk and Patsy Dougherty singled. But Ron Barkas fanned to end the inning. The other Bristol hit was a single by Ed Williams in the third.

"Eddie" Williams was the losing pitcher. The visitors scored their four markers in the fourth on singles by Jim MacMillan, Bob Kraus, Turner, and Fred Stryker. An error by Bob Lake also was mixed in.

Of the five Pennsbury hits, two were made by MacMillan.

Monday evening, Bristol will play Morrisville LBL All-Stars.

Coral-Colored Kitchens Seen At Shore Show

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 18—(INS)—A coral-colored future for kitchens was forecast today by the new items displayed at the national housewares show in Atlantic City.

Coral is the big new color for every kind of gadget from eggbeater handles to dog-feeding basins. You'll see coral dishdrainers, mats, shelving paper, canisters, bread boxes and garbage cans on sale in the stores next fall.

And the items that aren't coral will be aquamarine, lemon, flame-orange, cocoa, pale blue, chartreuse, dark green or white and black.

The change from the usual red and yellow colors for kitchen and bathroom items was the major part of a new style accent for housewares. At this week's show, the manufacturers unveiling their new fall stock are emphasizing new color, new design—at the same old prices.

More than 75 per cent of the 554 exhibitors indicated prices will remain at 1952 levels in spite of increased steel prices.

At the same time, the manufacturers display plenty of items designed not only to look good but to make work easier, as well as new gadgets for the housewife who likes things like automatic layer cake slicers and egg cookers that time the egg as they boil it.

A new set of bake-and-serve dishes come in milk white glass with black wrought iron serving bases. The dishes have clear glass lids for easy visibility.

Wrought iron, which showed up everywhere possible, also makes legs for new unpainted tables that sell for under $10. You can get a lamp table, cocktail table or end table for this price and stain or paint it yourself.

Also for do-it-yourselfers are new wrought iron "shelf-makers"—iron ends with welded shelf brackets and drilled screw holes to which you add lumber shelves of any length you like. The result is a bookcase that stands on the floor, a room divider, or a hanging shelf.

For the woman who's always glancing at the clock when the door bell rings, there's a new combined door chime and clock which operates from one wiring system. It can be mounted on, into, the wall.

A new idea for easy serving is a "lazy susan" wrought iron and glass tray which has a candleholder in the middle. The flame heats your coffee carafe while you nibble.

Even in down-to-earth kitchen equipment like pots and pans, the manufacturers have a new idea. It's the old cast iron enameled ware, in new colors like baby blue and aqua.

For the economy-minded housewife, there's a new brass chafing dish, electrically operated, which will sell for about half the usual price of such gadgets and can be cleaned with steel wool. And for the woman who's really counting pennies, there's a grease filter gadget to take smells and food particles out of any cooking grease so it can be used over again without making the eggs smell fishy.

Big Oak Church To Be Dedicated Sun. in Makefield

One of a number of churches being established by the Moravian Church in areas which at present do not have church facilities will be dedicated Sunday. The newly completed Big Oak Community Moravian Church on Big Oak road, Lower Makefield township, will begin its services with church school at 9:45 a. m. and morning worship at 11 a. m.

The president of the Eastern District Board of the Moravian Church, Dr. F. P. Stocker, Bethlehem, will dedicate the new building, and the Rev. Arthur Freeman, pastor, will preach the morning sermon, "August 13, 1727 in 1953."

In commemoration of the 500th anniversary, which will be celebrated in 1957, of the Moravian Church, a special fund has been raised for the purpose of starting new churches.

The Big Oak Church, formerly a farmhouse, now includes an attractive sanctuary, a kitchen and a lavatory on the first floor, and three Sunday School rooms, lavatory, study and bedroom for the pastor on the second floor.

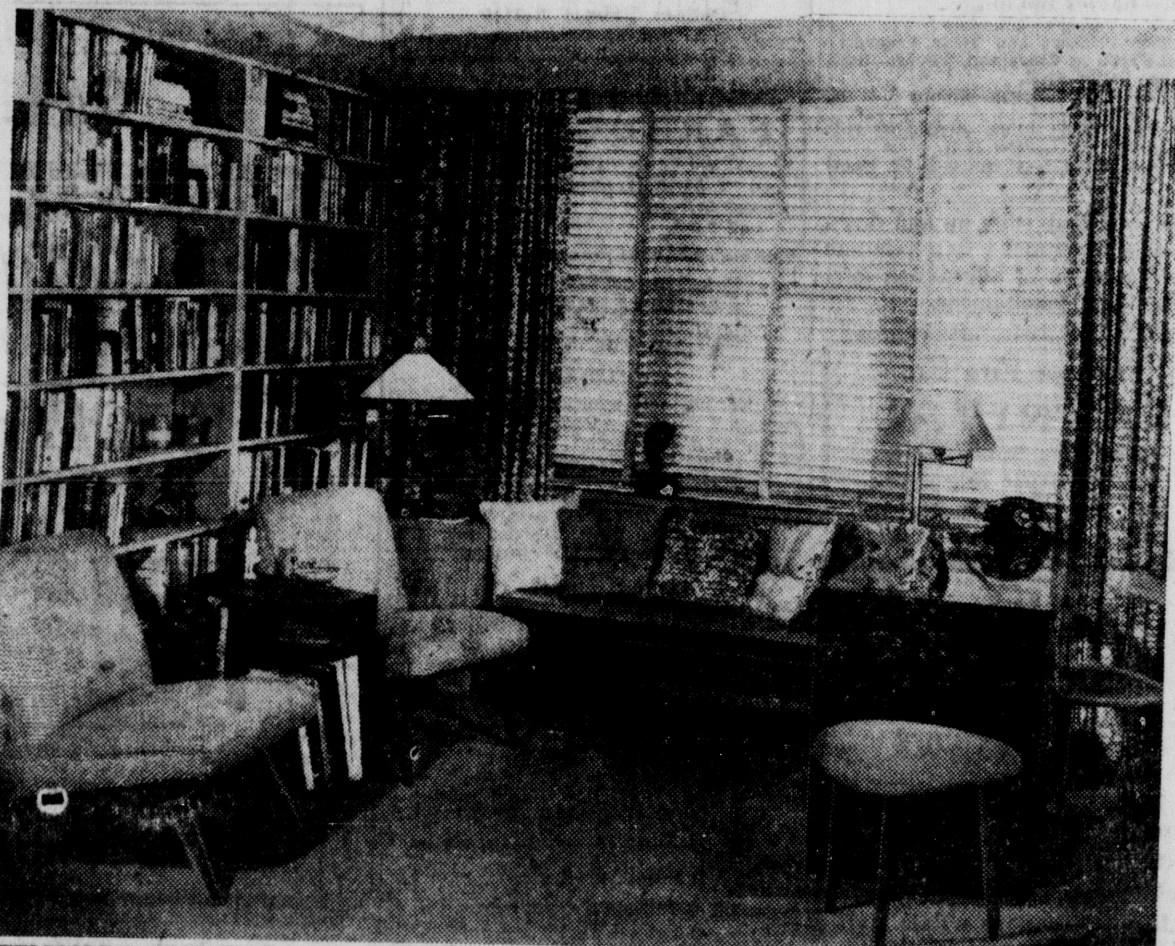

The Moravian Church had its origin in 1457 in what is now Czechoslovakia, taking its names from the Czech province of Moravia. Bethlehem, Pa., was founded by members of the Moravian sect.

Every Room a Living Room

A WIDE WINDOW sets the mood for this combination bedroom-living room. Venetian blinds in light golden tan tone in with the color scheme. Pastel brown walls blend with the cotton shag rug. The sofa couch has a woolen check cover done in tan, gold and brown.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

THERE once was a room called the front parlor. It was a special spot filled with straight-backed chairs, prized wedding presents and all Mother's treasures. Dad and the youngsters never got a peek into this sanctum unless company was coming.

Nowadays, homes are smaller and no one room can be set aside for special occasions. The parlor is a thing of the past. In fact, the wise homemaker in cramped quarters makes every room do double and triple duty. She can, if she likes, make every room a living room. That's what's been done in the apartment shown on today's page.

Study and Library

The living room itself is a cozy, comfortable area that doubles as a study—there's a desk near the window for homework. It's also a library, with numerous shelves to house the monthly book club selections.

The window wall sets the color scheme. Walls are painted the same blue-gray as the Venetian blinds. Upholstery and carpet repeat the apple green, black and chartreuse of the drapery print. For color

Clever Camouflaging

A long bench does a clever camouflaging job in front of the window. It hides the radiator and offers extra seating.

That's the living room—but it isn't the only one in this home. The dining area, too, is for living and entertaining. Comfortable chairs and dual-purpose furniture make it a room that can be used for something besides serving meals.

A drop-leaf table that folds inconspicuously away when mealtime's over helps convert the dining area into living quarters. A wall-to-wall chest that's a desk and storage unit contributes to the illusion. This particular unit also comes in handy when it's time for a buffet spread.

For bright accents, pillows are yellow, gold, chartreuse and red. Lamps have rattan bases with shades to match. This is a small modern apartment, yet it has all the convenience of a house because furnishings make every inch of space count. Here are three rooms that offer each member of the family a private living room for entertaining friends or a suite for one big party.

Kitchen Helped By Cabinets of Modern Styling

NEW YORK, July 18 — (INS) — A little thing can make a big difference in home decoration, and a change in hardware sometimes changes the whole appearance of your furniture.

This point was emphasized at the housewares show in Atlantic City. One manufacturer showing off kitchen cabinets had two identical cabinets on display—the usual white wood plastic-top model.

One cabinet had familiar chrome knob hardware on drawers and doors. The other had wrought iron hardware—hammered black handles in the early American style.

The change in hardware completely altered the appearance of the cabinets. The one with the wrought iron handles looked like a custom-made job.

This alteration in looks can be put into effect by any housewife. Most hardware stores sell a variety of furniture hardware, and antique stores generally feature handles and knobs of special periods.

Instead of throwing away old furniture pieces, particularly kitchen items, try a new coat of paint and a new set of hardware. Use brass or copper finish with pale colors, and black wrought iron against white or brilliant colors. Lucite knobs, or wood pulls painted a contrasting color, also will change something old into something new-looking.

House Sales Decline But Not Credit

WASHINGTON, July 18 — (INS)

Home building slowed down a little for the second straight month in June but the drop was insufficient to persuade the government to relax terms on real estate credit.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports builders started 103,000 new houses and apartments last month, the lowest level since February when 79,200 dwellings were put into construction.

Officials say the four percent drop in June home building stemmed from uncertainty over Administration housing policies coupled with the usual seasonal factors.

Although they concede the situation "needs close watching," the experts contend there is no reason to make home buying easier under the Federal Housing Administration at the present time.

However, FHA officials report a sharp drop in the number of applications received last month for new construction. FHA filings dropped from 39,400 in May to 31,150 in June. Most of this decline centered in one-to-four family houses.

This time last year, FHA was doing far less business but the June cut in applications means fewer new houses will be constructed in the coming months.

According to BLS, home building is falling off in New England, the south central states and along the Pacific coast. Continued gains but at lower levels are reported in the middle Atlantic area.

So far this year, builders have started 577,100 homes and apartments, two percent more than the number reported for the same period in 1952.

For each of the first two quarters, private home building is running five percent ahead of 1952 but public housing has dropped 37 percent from 44,100 units to 28,000.

Officials say these figures certainly indicate that the nation will produce another million dwellings this year, barring a sudden and unexpected change in economic conditions.

Although output is expected to decline somewhat for the rest of this year, they say builders should start nearly 160,000 homes a month during the rest of the summer.

While not quite as optimistic, industry leaders say they are not pressuring the government now for easier credit terms and other steps needed to forestall a serious critical slump in output.

The builders say they are willing to wait and see the report Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole is preparing for the White House on the housing policies President Eisenhower should put into operation.

Coral-Colored Kitchens Seen At Shore Show

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 18—(INS)—A coral-colored future for kitchens was forecast today by the new items displayed at the national housewares show in Atlantic City.

Coral is the big new color for every kind of gadget from eggbeater handles to dog-feeding basins. You'll see coral dishdrainers, mats, shelving paper, canisters, bread boxes and garbage cans on sale in the stores next fall.

And the items that aren't coral will be aquamarine, lemon, flame-orange, cocoa, pale blue, chartreuse, dark green or white and black.

The change from the usual red and yellow colors for kitchen and bathroom items was the major part of a new style accent for housewares. At this week's show, the manufacturers unveiling their new fall stock are emphasizing new color, new design—at the same old prices.

More than 75 per cent of the 554 exhibitors indicated prices will remain at 1952 levels in spite of increased steel prices.

At the same time, the manufacturers display plenty of items designed not only to look good but to make work easier, as well as new gadgets for the housewife who likes things like automatic layer cake slicers and egg cookers that time the egg as they boil it.

A new set of bake-and-serve dishes come in milk white glass with black wrought iron serving bases. The dishes have clear glass lids for easy visibility.

BRISTOL BANKS A POWERFUL AID TO COMMUNITY'S VAST DEVELOPMENT

Farmers, Trust Company, Grow As They Serve

The whole Bristol area can take pride in the strength and the soaring growth of Bristol's two major banking institutions — Farmers National Bank of Bucks County and the Bristol Trust Company.

Long before any decision was reached for the bringing of the U S Steel plant to this section, with the resultant building of whole new cities only a few miles outside Bristol, these two banks were busy with expansions and improvements to be ready for the community's inevitable post-war growth.

Both of the banks greatly enlarged their quarters — Bristol Trust with an entirely new building, and the Farmers National with a big rebuilding program which retained the historic facades of its century-and-a-quarter old home as part of a commodious and modern new office.

Today the combined resources of the two banks total $41,500,000, still growing at so rapid a rate that it has doubled within the span of a few years.

Two years ago, in 1951, the resources amounted to approximately $19,700,000.

This spectacular expansion has been partly the result and partly the stimulus of the tremendous growth in the Bristol-Morrisville-Langhorne triangle, where development has been at a pace seldom before seen in the world's history.

Deposits have jumped by leaps and bounds, with the Farmers National Bank reporting 6400 savings accounts, 7000 checking accounts and over 900 renting safe deposit boxes.

The Bristol Trust Company reports similar gains in every department, and both local banks announce that their loan departments have expanded greatly — proof that they are doing their part to pave the way for the tremendous expansion program in this section of the state, financing homes, improvements and other projects, as well as civic programs. Loans amount to well over $18,000,000, it is estimated, an indication of good faith on the part of the banks and faith in their fellowman and the future of this area.

Not only has the community's wealth more than doubled in the past two years, but the economic picture as painted by the bankers of Bristol give an indication that they anticipate continued growth — with more construction of homes, new industries, and new projects — both municipal, statewide and by local firms.

Thousands of newcomers from every state in the union have settled in Lower Bucks county, and these folks have opened deposits, obtained loans or transacted other bank business with either of the two Bristol banks. They shop at Bristol stores and patronize Bristol theatres. In brief, as a Bristol banker pointed out, they are an integral part of Bristol's prosperity. To serve these folks, the two banks opened branch offices and each now has two.

With one branch already flourishing at Yardley, Bristol Trust Company opened its second branch at Levittown last Saturday, Attracting 10,000 visitors who were escorted through the modern and beautiful interior and inspected interesting exhibits on display. This branch gives an indication of the financial growth of the community. Within the span of a brief week, the Levittown branch had 1500 checking accounts, 1000 savings accounts and over 300 renting safe deposit boxes.

The Farmers National Bank of Bucks County has a well-established branch at Croydon and a second one at Fairless Hills. The latter is at present located in a temporary office — in fact that office was intended as a three-bedroom housing unit, and the "homey" attitude of the bank and its personnel is augmented by its intended surroundings. As one bank official expressed it, "we do business in the parlor, kitchen and bedrooms." Within a month the temporary office will be moved to a modern splendid structure in the business section of Fairless Hills. It will have a dual drive-in accommodations for motorist-customers of the bank.

This homey attitude is evident to newcomers at both banks — an air of friendliness and courtesy is prevalent — and one sees none of the hauteur nor coolness sometimes witnessed in metropolitan banking institutions. A Bristol merchant, commenting on this friendly service, credited it as being an integral part in the rapid expansion of both financial institutions. "Folks feel at home there," he observed.

Among the signs of progress at both banks are the parking facilities afforded customers on the banks of the

Delaware — both within easy access of the banks doors. The officials of the banks foresee the day when they will utilize spacious quarters in their basements to augment the upstairs facilities. Eventually, too, both banks will probably plan for more branch offices, for as the area expands, so will they.

As the banks grew, the personnel increased, and both banks today have about double the number of employees on the payroll a few years ago.

A great tribute to the banks and one that should not go unheeded is the fact that they met the tremendous upsurge of industrial growth and business expansion here without the need of any outside banking interests opening branch offices here.

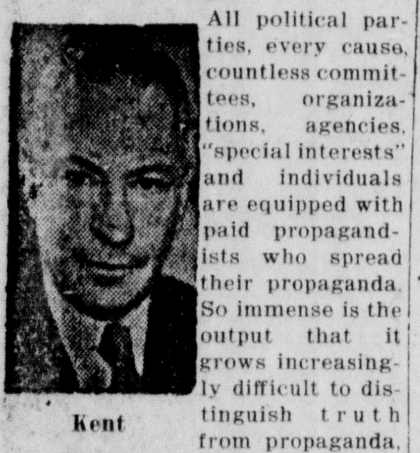

Although the bankers themselves modestly disclaim any tributes tossed their way, the businessmen of the community join in a united acknowledgment and a salvo of applause, stating they are thankful the community had two such solid banking institutions to meet the postwar emergency and the present-day boom.

The Bristol banks foresee continued expansion and prosperity for this section of Bucks County — stating all signs point to more industries and business — a healthy economic sign for one and all.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
NOT REALLY NEW

WASHINGTON, July 18 — The word propaganda seems first to have been used as far back as the Sixteenth Century when the Roman Catholic Church had a College of Propaganda in which young men were prepared for missionary work — to "propagate the faith." It was not until the first World War that nations began to recognize propaganda as a potent weapon in war as in peace. After that it slid into our politics until today propaganda literally swamps the country. The cost must run into billions.

All political parties, every cause, countless committees, organizations, agencies, "special interests" and individuals are equipped with paid propagandists who spread their propaganda. So immense is the output that it grows increasingly difficult to distinguish truth from propaganda.

For one thing, it is more expensively gotten up and on better paper than the usual piece of political propaganda. Another is the effort to sell it to the general public from the news stands on the theory that it is bright, witty and interesting. Actually, it isn't any of those things. It isn't even good anti-Eisenhower propaganda. The late Charles Michelson, the best political propagandist of his time, would have been ashamed of its contents. The venom is not well concealed, the distortions are gross and the wit is wet. In brief, it is fashioned upon the well-known propaganda lines. Except that its bias is in the other direction and its cost more, there is little to distinguish it from the regular output of the Republican Committee. Charlie could have done a better job for either party. Largely, this widely advertised "new venture" is made up of quotations from editorials and articles criticizing the President plus reproductions of numerous cartoons designed to damage him. There are so many of these that they seem to make somewhat ridiculous the bleat about the "one-party press." It is also interesting — and natural — that the newspapers and columnists from whom the magazine quotes should be the ones who hail it as very superior, indeed.

The primary purpose of the publication, of course, is to smear President Eisenhower, but it is clearly revealed that the secondary purpose is to promote the Stevenson candidacy in 1956. If this line is continued in other issues, the Republicans will not be the only ones to take a dim view of the new propaganda. For there are a considerable number of influential Democrats who are not in the least disposed to agree that the Stevenson renomination is inevitable — or even desirable. Also, these very strongly believe it is not the business of the National Committee to promote any candidate for the presidential nomination. That they argue, is the exclusive business of the National Convention. And fittingly Symington as a vote getter and ular leader though he now may be, that does not entitle Mr. Stevenson to the nomination. In three years he easily may seem neither the strongest nor the most logical candidate. It has been pointed out before that Mr. Stevenson last year not only did not carry his own State of Illinois but also lost a number of strong Democratic states that seemed sure until the votes were counted.

One of these was Missouri, which Mr. Truman carried in 1948 by 262,000 but Stevenson lost by 22,000 in 1952, running 277,000 behind Senator W. Stuart Symington, who was on the same ticket. This, it will be admitted, was enough to center considerable attention upon Mr. Stevenson. It is true that Senator Kefauver, of Tennessee, and Senator Kerr, of Oklahoma, have not wholly discarded their presidential aspirations. And there are others. All of which, as Mr. Arthur Krock points out, means that the editors of the Democratic Digest will have to watch their step. They easily might get an unfavorable party reaction if the pro-Stevenson favor continues as strong as in the first issue.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Lord if thou wilt thou canst make me clean.—Luke 5:12.
Faith is the key. A clean soul is more important than a healed body. Some have festering sores of the soul and are indifferent to them.

Your Birthday by STELLA II

SATURDAY, JULY 18 — Born today, you have a rather deep, studious nature. Science, literature, and the arts are fields in which you show distinct talent. These gifts should be cultivated from an early age. You have a great deal of vision and can plan things on a large scale. You have the capabilities for carrying on an objective which gets everything moving smoothly.

You have a great deal of physical as well as mental energy and once you start a job, you can be depended upon to finish it on time and do it right. You men are aggressive, positive and rather inclined to be dominating. You women, although you have many of the same qualities, hide them under a quiet, gentle exterior and work your desires through patient tenacity which has a high degree of diplomacy as a very important ingredient. You always get your own way, but you do it with less bluster and show!

You have a great deal of personal charm and will have several romances before you make the final selection of a life partner. Once this selection is made, however, you are devoted and loyal and will do anything for those you love. You may not be demonstrative, but you show your devotion in quiet ways which make you greatly beloved by members of your own family.

You women, perhaps, should attempt to curb your desire for beautiful clothes and the luxuries of life. You are, actually, inclined to be a little vain!

You have a gift for being able to solve problems which others may consider impossible. How much of this is based on experiences and common sense and how much is being able to make a good guess on a "hunch" is debatable. But in any event, you usually teach the right solution and that is what really counts in the long run.

You have a vivid imagination and are talented in the arts, especially in poetry and prose. You have a deep love of nature and like to spend a lot of your time outdoors. You love animals and understand them. They seem to know that you do and they make friends with you easily.

'College Education' Can Be Dangerous

(By Inez Robb)

International News Service
NEW YORK, July 18 — (INS) — A college education, like a little knowledge, is a dangerous thing as this nation has been discovering in recent months.

Scarcely a man or woman is now alive who does not remember some scholar who set out for college full of sweetness and light, only to return home a boor full of beer, brass and bumptious opinions.

Seldom, however, has a more distressing case history of ruination via higher education been revealed to the public than is now unfolding in the courts of this city.

The victims in this instance is Duke, a German shepherd. His owner, grocer Joseph Eufemia, by dint of savings and sacrifice sent Duke to a canine college in a rural area north of the city.

What happened to man's best friend at this institution of higher canine learning shouldn't happen to a dog, in the opinion of Mr. Eufemia. Duke was just another big, friendly, awkward adolescent when he left home to matriculate in the canine ivy league.

Ten weeks and $381 worth of tuition later, Duke returned home a typical Joe College disdainful of authority, scornful of the capitalists who come into his master's grocery store to buy chow and ready and eager to put the bite on everyone, particularly cash customers.

Naturally, this was terribly distressing to Mr. Eufemia, who had only wanted to give Duke advantages that he himself had never had. Now he is suing the canine college to recover the cost of tuition, and is backed by nine other disillusioned citizens who claim their dogs were likewise ruined by contact with the University's curriculum.

But it is my contention that this is not so much a matter for the courts as for Congress.

What happened to Duke at college should be of vital concern to the whole nation. Our dogs are in peril from higher education, we should be informed. To be forewarned is to be fore-armed, or perhaps, four-footed in this case.

This is a case that should be placed in the hands of Congressmen McCarthy, Jenner and Velde rather than the courts! Are our canine colleges, where our dogs should learn to be kind, obedient friends to man, honeycombed with subversives? Are Communists in control of the apparatus whereby man's best friend drinks from the fount of knowledge?

Are the young, pliable minds of America's half-grown dogs being perverted to the nefarious ends of the Kremlin by clever agents of the U. S. S. R.? Are our dogs, the true guardians of the nation's home and hearth, being taught to bite the hand that feeds them?

Are these, our pups, being conditioned to turn the other cheek and sleep by the fire while the communist horse breaches the walls of democracy? Does his master's voice speak in a Russian accent?

These are only a few of the vital questions implicit in the tragedy of Duke, his life and career warped by contact with so-called higher learning. Who were Duke's teachers, who were his companions? Did he belong to a fraternity? Was he taught to play pool? Did he chase co-eds?

It is of utmost importance that the nation learn, and quickly, what books were on the library shelves of this canine college! Have Albert Payson Terhune and "The Dog of Flanders" been replaced by Marx and "Das Kapital"?

Was Duke, a ready dupe, lured into communist front organizations? Was this young, inexperienced dog trained to espionage work?

What, in a word, has made Duke turn on the cash customers? This is no laughing matter. The nation's schools must be safe for the nation's dogs.

And if you are still naive enough to think that Duke's radical bark is worse than his bite, ask the cash customers!

The ancient Persians recovered bezaor stones from the stomachs of goats and credited the stones with vast healing powers.

BRISTOL BANKS A POWERFUL AID TO COMMUNITY'S VAST DEVELOPMENT

Farmers, Trust Company, Grow As They Serve

The whole Bristol area can take pride in the strength and the soaring growth of Bristol's two major banking institutions — Farmers National Bank of Bucks County and the Bristol Trust Company.

Long before any decision was reached for the bringing of the US Steel plant to this section, with the resultant building of whole new cities only a few miles outside Bristol, these two banks were busy with expansions and improvements to be ready for the community's inevitable post-war growth.

Both of the banks greatly enlarged their quarters — Bristol Trust with an entirely new building, and the Farmers National with a big rebuilding program which retained the historic facades of its century-and-a-quarter old home as part of a commodious and modern new office.

Today the combined resources of the two banks total $41,500,000, still growing at so rapid a rate that it has doubled within the span of a few years.

Two years ago, in 1951, the resources amounted to approximately $19,700,000.

This spectacular expansion has been partly the result and partly the stimulus of the tremendous growth in the Bristol-Morrisville-Langhorne triangle, where development has been at a pace seldom before seen in the world's history.

Deposits have jumped by leaps and bounds, with the Farmers National Bank reporting 6400 savings accounts, 7000 checking accounts and over 900 renting safe deposit boxes.

The Bristol Trust Company reports similar gains in every department, and both local banks announce that their loan departments have expanded greatly — proof that they are doing their part to pave the way for the tremendous expansion program in this section of the state-financing homes, improvements and other projects, as well as civic programs. Loans amount to well over $18,000,000, it is estimated, an indication of good faith on the part

Not only has the community's wealth more than doubled in the past two years, but the economic picture as painted by the bankers of Bristol give an indication that they anticipate continued growth — with more construction of homes, new industries, and new projects — both municipal, statewide and by local firms.

Thousands of newcomers from every state in the union have settled in Lower Bucks county, and these folks have opened deposits, obtained loans or transacted other bank business with either of the two Bristol banks. They shop at Bristol stores and patronize Bristol theatres. In brief, as a Bristol banker pointed out, they are an integral part of Bristol's prosperity. To serve these folks, the two banks opened branch offices and each now has two.

With one branch already flourishing at Yardley, Bristol Trust Company opened its second branch at Levittown last Saturday, attracting 10,000 visitors who were escorted through the modern and beautiful interior and inspected interesting exhibits on display. This branch gives an indication of the financial growth of the community. Within the span of a brief week, the Levittown branch had 1500 checking accounts, 1000 savings accounts and over 300 renting safe deposit boxes.

The Farmers National Bank of Bucks County has a well-established branch at Croydon and a second one at Fairless Hills. The latter is at present located in a temporary office — in fact that office was intended as a three-bedroom housing unit, and the "homey" attitude of the bank and its personnel is augmented by its intended surroundings. As one bank official expressed it, "we do business in the parlor, kitchen and bedrooms." Within a month the temporary office will be moved to a modern splendid structure in the business section of Fairless Hills. It will have a dual drive-in accommodations for motorist-customers of the bank.

This homey attitude is evident to newcomers at both banks — an air of friendliness and courtesy is prevalent — and one sees none of the hauteur nor coolness sometimes witnessed in metropolitan banking institutions. A Bristol merchant, commenting on this friendly service, credited it as being an integral part in the rapid expansion of both financial institutions. "Folks feel at home there," he observed.

Among the signs of progress at both banks are the parking facilities afforded customers on the banks of the

Delaware — both within easy access of the banks doors. The officials of the banks foresee the day when they will utilize spacious quarters in their basements to augment the upstairs facilities. Eventually, too, both banks will probably plan for more branch offices, for as the area expands, so will they.

As the banks grew, the personnel increased, and both banks today have about double the number of employees on the payroll a few years ago.

A great tribute to the banks and one that should not go unheeded is the fact that they met the tremendous upsurge of industrial growth and business expansion here without the need of any outside banking interests opening branch offices here.

Although the bankers themselves modestly disclaim any tributes tossed their way, the businessmen of the community join in a united acknowledgment and a salvo of applause, stating they are thankful the community had two such solid banking institutions to meet the postwar emergency and the present-day boom.

The Bristol banks foresee continued expansion and prosperity for this section of Bucks County — stating all signs point to more industries and business — a healthy economic sign for one and all.

This is not an original idea but there are one or two things about it that are noteworthy, if not particularly new.

For one thing, it is more expensively gotten up and on better paper than the usual piece of political propaganda. 'College Education' Can Be Dangerous

(By Inez Robb)

International News Service
NEW YORK, July 18 — (INS) — A college education, like a little knowledge, is a dangerous thing as this nation has been discovering in recent months.

Scarcely a man or woman is now alive who does not remember some scholar who set out for college full of sweetness and light, only to return home a boor full of beer, brass and bumptious opinions.

Seldom, however, has a more distressing case history of ruination via higher education been revealed to the public than is now unfolding in the courts of this city.

The victims in this instance is Duke, a German shepherd. His owner, grocer Joseph Eufemia, by dint of savings and sacrifice sent Duke to a canine college in a rural area north of the city.

What happened to man's best friend at this institution of higher canine learning shouldn't happen to a dog, in the opinion of Mr. Eufemia. Duke was just another big, friendly, awkward adolescent when he left home to matriculate in the canine ivy league.

Ten weeks and $381 worth of tuition later, Duke returned home a typical Joe College disdainful of authority, scornful of the capitalists who come into his master's grocery store to buy chow and ready and eager to put the bite on everyone, particularly cash customers.

Naturally, this was terribly distressing to Mr. Eufemia, who had only wanted to give Duke advantages that he himself had never had. Now he is suing the canine college to recover the cost of tuition, and is backed by nine other disillusioned citizens who claim their dogs were likewise ruined by contact with the University's curriculum.

But it is my contention that this is not so much a matter for the courts as for Congress.

What happened to Duke at college should be of vital concern to the whole nation. For our dogs are in peril from higher education, we should be informed. To be forewarned is to be fore-armed, or perhaps, four-footed in this case.

This is a case that should be placed in the hands of Congressmen McCarthy, Jenner and Velde rather than the courts! Are our canine colleges, where our dogs should learn to be kind, obedient friends to man, honeycombed with subversives? Are Communists in control of the apparatus whereby man's best friend drinks from the fount of knowledge?

Are the young, pliable minds of America's half-grown dogs being perverted to the nefarious ends of the Kremlin by clever agents of the U. S. S. R.? Are our dogs, the true guardians of the nation's home and hearth, being taught to bite the hand that feeds them?

Are these, our pups, being conditioned to turn the other cheek and sleep by the fire while the communist horse breaches the walls of democracy? Does his master's voice speak in a Russian accent?

These are only a few of the vital questions implicit in the tragedy of Duke, his life and career warped by contact with so-called higher learning. Who were Duke's teachers, who were his companions? Did he belong to a fraternity? Was he taught to play pool? Did he chase co-eds?

It is of utmost importance that the nation learn, and quickly, what books were on the library shelves of this canine college! Have Albert Payson Terhune and "The Dog of Flanders" been replaced by Marx and "Das Kapital"?

Was Duke, a ready dupe, lured into communist front organizations? Was this young, inexperienced dog trained to espionage work?

What, in a word, has made Duke turn on the cash customers? This is no laughing matter. The nation's schools must be safe for the nation's dogs.

And if you are still naive enough to think that Duke's radical bark is worse than his bite, ask the cash customers!

The ancient Persians recovered besom stones from the stomachs of goats and credited the stones with vast healing powers.
